

CORONAVIRUS 24/7

Business support 24/7 during the coronavirus pandemic

How can we help you?

Every day we are answering dozens of clients' questions about safely conducting business during the coronavirus pandemic. Answers to these questions require analysis of many areas, including labour law (examining the health of employees, guests and business partners, remote working, absence from work), personal data protection (procedures, questionnaires and forms about "what can be done and what must be asked"), contract law (force majeure issue, supply disruptions) and tax law.

Due to the scale and scope of the problems and the uniqueness of the situation, we have opened telephone lines and an e-mail address. Please contact us with any questions, or legal or business concerns related to this situation.

We are in constant contact with experts from global legal organisations, thanks to which we can make references to the activities and practices of authorities and companies in other countries.

We are at your disposal 24/7
